TRIAL TO START NOVEMBER 18

Judge Sample Sets This Date For Hearing Case of Lola Connolly
Against Attorneys.

SEPTEMBER TERM ENDED

Lewis Pate Given Judgment Against
Nellie Goddard—One Judgment
Set Aside.

The September term of the circuit court ended this afternoon. There will be no court next week and the November term will open one week from Monday. Judge Earl Sample of Greenfield, special judge in the case of Lola Connolly against Frank J. Hall, et al., to redeem property from mortgage, was here a short time this afternoon and set the case for trial. It will start Nov. 18. The case promise to be hard fought. Mrs. Connolly alleges that she over-paid her attorneys.

The other defendants along with Mr. Hall, who were Mrs. Connolly's attorneys, are George Campbell, Urie Z. Wiley, Arthur Jones, John Osborn and Lewis Harding. Judge Sample was appointed special judge by the governor after both sides had agreed to let Judge Megee name the man who would hear the case.

Judge Megee handed down several decisions this morning. The court gave Lewis Pate judgment for $119 and $25 attorney fees against Nellie Goddard. Pate demanded $191. The case was to foreclose a mechanics lien and was based on a contract. Pate built a barn on the Goddard farm and alleged that he had $191 due on the contract. The case was heard sometime ago. Sexton and McColgin represented Pate and Hall and Campbell the defendant.

A motion to set aside a judgment in the case of John Manche against William Bell was sustained and the case will be heard over. Manche is suing Bell on a contract and demands $325. The defendant defaulted and the court gave Manche a judgment for $258. With the reopening of the case the costs of the default will be taxed to the defendant.

The court found for Elihu Price in his suit against James Hinchman to foreclose a mortgage, demanding $550. The amount of the judgment is not given.

A cross-complaint was filed by the defendant in the case of Charles L. Henry against Arvel R. Herkless. Henry asks damages in the sum of $1,500 and an injunction.

LITTLE OVERSIGHT IS ALL

Republican Ticket, Losing at Fortville, Takes Office Anyway.

Judge Earl Sample of Greenfield, judge of the Hancock circuit court, who was here today as special judge in the Connolly-Hall case, told of an unusual proceeding at Fortville in which he had a part. The whole Democratic ticket was elected in that town last Tuesday, because there are not many Republicans in Hancock county anyway. The chairmen and secretary of the nominating convention returned four indictments and tion of the ticket and the whole Republican ticket goes in by default of the victors.

Addie E. Finch has filed suit against Alvan O. Cooper to foreclose a mortgage, demanding $50.

JOHN JORDAN BACK ON JOB

Fired by Kelley But Continues to Work.

John Jordan, who was "fired" yesterday by John Kelley, street commissioner, was back on the job again this morning, sweeping Main street in the business district. Jordan was told to stick to his job by the council despite Kelley. Jordan was employed by the street committee after the council had voted to employ another man and the general opinion is that Kelley had no power to discharge him.

TAX COLLECTIONS ARE OVER $200,000

County Treasurer M. M. McBride Says $173 Was Paid the Last Two Weeks.

$28,000 ON THE LAST DAY, TOO

The tax collections for the fall tax paying period amounted to $210,810.85, according to an announcement made today by William M. McBride, county treasurer. The sum was paid in from the first Monday in May to the first Monday in November. The fact that $173,000 of this amount was paid the last two weeks of the period reveals how taxpayers postpone paying their taxes until the last moment. Approximately $28,000 was collected on the last day, which was last Monday. The total collections were $10,000 larger than the county treasurer estimated they would be. The collections during the spring period amounted to $275,000, the increase over the fall period being due to the road taxes being paid then.

County Treasurer McBride always allows taxes sent by mail to come in when the postmark shows that the letter was mailed the last taxpaying day. This always results in him having to hold the books open. Some treasurers will not admit any remittance by mail after the office closes the last day.

LOOK FOR OTHER FIELDS TO CONQUER

Lookout Society of M. P. Church Has Invitation to Husk Corn on Geo. Spillman Farm.

RECEIVE 3½ CENTS A BUSHEL

The Lookout society of the New Salem M. P. church will next invade the corn field of George Spillman, near New Salem. He has extended an invitation to the women to come and husk all the corn they want.

It was this society which Wednesday shucked 125 bushels of corn on Jesse Winkler's farm in two and one-half hours, and Tuesday husked 120 bushels in two hours on John Vogel's farm. They receive three and a half cents for every bushel they shuck. They made $8.40 out of these two tasks which they put in the bank to their account.

The society keeps the church in repair and pays other odd bills that arise. They are now raising a fund to repair the parsonage next spring and are endeavoring to earn money in every possible way.

ASKS MORE CARE BE USED ON MAIL

Postmaster Hunt Has Letter From Washington Deploring Increase in Deficient Addresses.

WRITE STREET AND NUMBER

Mail Carriers Are Not Mind Readers and of Course Don't Know Which Corner.

Postmaster G. P. Hunt desires to call the attention of postoffice patrons to the noted increasing carelessness in regard to the addressing of mail. Oftentimes the addresses are incomplete and insufficient, with the result that the mail is either never delivered or is delayed several days.

Postmaster Hunt has a communication from the postoffice department at Washington in which he is urged to do all that he can to correct the evil. The letter sets forth suggestions.

"A day never passes that we do not have trouble over incomplete or incorrect addresses," said Charles Brown, deputy postmaster. "So often people who are guests in Rushville homes receive mail unaddressed. We never know where they are visiting. It is a very poor chance we have of ever delivering this class of mail."

"Your active co-operation is asked," says the letter to the postmaster, "in an effort to relieve the postal service of the burden imposed on it by the growing evil of improperly and incompletely addressed mail. The delivery, for these reasons, is often delayed and is sometimes made impossible."

The failure to put the street number on the address is becoming very general. Many correspondents believe that "East Sixth street" or "North Jones" or even mere "Smith or Jones" street without any direction being indicated, is enough. Should the address be at the corner of Smith and Jones streets the address should indicate which corner. This is particularly important for the reason that many carriers' route end on corners, and unless the correct corner is given it may cause re-routing the letter.

The circular says that the increase in the evil is due in part to the department supplying deficient addresses and the exploitation in newspapers of the ability of some clerks to read freak addresses. The circular continues: "Postmasters should advise their patrons that complete and accurate addresses are essential to prompt mail delivery and that they should co-operate with the department to the extent of seeing that all mail originate by them bears a street number, or a room number in the case of an official building, in addition to the name of the city and state. Attention should also be invited to the fact that they can be of material assistance in the education of the general public with respect to this requirement by having all stationary intended for transmission in the mails printed with their complete street or office address."

Hereafter when mail is delayed because of deficient addressing, the letter will be so stamped. The circular announces that a stamp with the words, "Delivery delayed on account of incomplete address," has been prepared and the local postmaster has ordered one for immediate use.

LOUISE PITMAN WINS THE PONY

Six-Year Old Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pitman is Successful in Contest.

OVER SIX MILLION VOTES

William Blackledge is Second With 1,191,295 Votes—Winner Receives 2,096,000.

Louise Pitman age six years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pitman, 425 North Jackson street, won the pony, harness and road wagon offered by eleven business houses of Rushville.

The final count which was completed this morning, show that more than six million votes had been cast. They were divided among seventy-eight children.

The little Pitman girl received 2,096,000 votes, which was 904,705 more than the number cast for the next nearest contestant, William Blackledge, little son of Mrs. Amos Blackledge.

The eleven business firms which staged the contest were: Bliss & Cowing, Kennedy & Casady, Ben A. Cox, Fred A. Caldwell, Mrs. Belle Cosand, the Boxley piano store, Fred Cochran, Portola theater, C. E. Cowing & Bro. John Kennard and the Daily Republican.

All of the merchants gave a vote for each cent's worth of merchandise purchased. The Daily Republican gave five votes for a cent on money paid for subscriptions only. This accounts for the larger number of votes given by the newspaper.

The count required much longer than it was expected. Each merchant assisted by some persons outside the firm, counted the votes cast at their respective stores. The votes were all collected at Bliss & Cowing's where the totals were tabulated.

Considerable interest centered in the contest because of the efforts which were made by the leading contestants.

The little Pitman girl was delighted to hear that she had won the pony. Her father worked diligently in gathering votes and sought the help of all of his friends. He will take possession of the newly acquired property Monday.

William M. Alexander, grandfather of William Blackledge takes this opportunity to thank all of the people who assisted his grandson and the merchants who made it possible, "for it was a prize that would gladden the heart of any child in the land above anything else you could offer them."

Mr. Alexander says that he and Mrs. Blackledge want to thank every one of their many friends just the same as if they had won. "The tickets came pouring in upon us from many unexpected sources, some people buying in anticipation of their wants, others borrowing money to pay bills to help us."

The contestants, the votes they received and the order in which they finished are as follows:

Louise Pitman, 2,096,000; William Blackledge, 1,191,295; Hayes O'Brien Readle, 484,295; Lowell Osborne, 351,175; Edward Haywood Lushell, 239,415; Richard Clark, 108,190; Richard Newhouse, 102,895; Velma McClure, 87,695; Lillian Priest, 78,155; William Heaston, 75,465; Zeola Merrill, 72,260; Esther Foster, 66,385; Weldon Kennedy, 63,105; Lois Reeve, 52,035; Letha Higgins, 50,845; Elsie A. Hardin, 46,025; Carlyle Em-swell, 44,405; Paul Stewart, 40,790; Russell Rees, 36,050; Mildred Gregory, 34,865; Carlos Heath.

ROBBERY STORY DENIED

Rumored That Jones Store at Richland Was Entered Last Night.

There was a rumor today that the Jones general store at Richland had been broken into last night and robbed, but a telephone call to the store brought forth nothing but a denial. It is reported that considerable thieving has been going on in Richland and vicinity for several weeks and that some people of the community are suspected. It is said that chickens have been stolen in broad daylight.

TWO INDICTMENTS WERE RETURNED

John Jackman and George Root of Milroy Arrested on Charge of Public Intoxication.

THEY WILL FIGHT THE CASES

John Jackman and George Root of Milroy were arrested today by Sheriff Bebout on bench warrants issued from grand jury indictments charging intoxication. Both men appeared before Judge Megee this afternoon and were released on bond. The bond of each was placed at $100. It is understood that they will enter a plea of not guilty when the cases are called. The two indictments on which the men were arrested were returned by the grand jury about a week ago. At this time the grand jury returned four indictments and as yet no arrests have been made in the other two. Root and Jackman both went their own bail. They will be represented by John Kiplinger. Both are well known residents of Milroy.

I. & C. NOW RUNNING INTO INDIANAPOLIS

City Car Lines Are Operating Once More and Interurbans Enter City as of Old

FREIGHT AND EXPRESS, TOO

With the resumption of service on the Indianapolis city lines this morning, the interurban lines began running into Indianapolis today. This means that the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company's cars are running to the traction terminal station in Indianapolis on regular schedule as they were before the strike was called a week ago last night. Freight and express service is also started again as of old.

The arbitration agreement was signed late yesterday afternoon, whereby the striking Indianapolis car men shall present their grievances to the Indianapolis Traction & Terminal company, and if a satisfactory agreement is not reached in ten days, the state public service commission shall be the final board of appeal which shall settle the points of difference.

RALLY DAY.

D. C. GREEN AGAIN WINS PROMOTION

Son-in-Law of Dr. J. C. Sexton Will Leave Marshfield, Ore., to Accept Position at Everitt.

HEADS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Is Connected With Gas and Electric Company in West—Well Known in Rushville.

D. C. Green of Marshfield, Oregon, who is well known here and who married Miss Frances Sexton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Sexton, has received another promotion from the Byllesby Gas Company and they will soon move to Everitt, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Green have been in Marshfield for the past two years. The following from the Marshfield Times will be of interest here:

D. C. Green, manager of the Oregon Power Company in the Coos Bay district, received word this morning that he had been promoted by the H. M. Byllesby Company to manage their plants in the Everitt district, becoming manager of the Everitt Gas Company, which includes the plants at Everitt Snohomish and Monroe, Wash.

The promotion is a most marked one and will come as a source of gratification to Mr. Green's many friends here. While they dislike his transfer from Coos Bay, they are pleased with his advancement in his chosen line of work.

Mr. Green stated that he expected that he would leave here between November 15 and 20. It is not exactly certain who will succeed him in this territory.

Mr. Green has been here a little over two years, coming here from Albany, where he has been manager of the Byllesby properties. Aside from the success in his own line of work, he has taken a leading part in public affairs, being now president of the Marshfield Chamber of Commerce. Who will succeed him in the latter capacity has not been announced although it is not unlikely that Hugh McLain will be chosen.

Besides handling the extensions and improvements in the Marshfield and North Bend gas and electric plants, Mr. Green arranged for the Oregon Power Company to take over the Myrtle Point and Coquille service.

COSTLY STRIKE HAPPILY ENDED

Arbitration Wins the Day at Indianapolis.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

Will Be Arbiters in the Wage Dispute Which Paralyzed the Streetcar and Interurban Service of Indiana's Capital For One Week, During Which Business Interests of the City Suffered Greatly.

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—J. J. Thorpe and other labor organizers who have been active in the local streetcar and interurban situation announced last evening after the proposal of peace as affecting the city lines of Indianapolis had been signed, that they would continue their activities in the strike of the interurban men.

Indianapolis, Nov. 8.—After having been in progress a few hours less than one week, during which the streetcar and interurban service in this city was completely paralyzed, the streetcar strike was ended at 6 o'clock last evening, when seven men representing a committee of the employees of the Indianapolis Traction and Terminal company attached their signatures to an agreement which previously had been signed by President Robert I. Todd of the traction company, Governor Ralston and Ethelbert Stewart, a representative of the federal department of labor.

The 800 carmen involved returned to their work this morning. The departure of the state troops which were called by Governor Ralston to restore order after the police and sheriff had failed to control the situation, was begun at once.

One of the important features of the settlement is that the principle of arbitration in labor controversies will be established in Indiana.

Grievances of every kind and character as to wages and conditions of work are to be presented to the company within five days, and if not adjusted satisfactorily within ten days thereafter, the questions involved will be submitted to the public service commission, which will sit as a board of arbitration.

The public service commission, if the grievances are carried to that body, will hear evidence of all persons interested and it will be required to render a decision within thirty days from the first date of hearing.

All of the men who went out on strike are to return to work with full seniority rights and without prejudice, and all employees who were discharged because of activity in forming a union are to be reinstated. The company, however, is not required by the terms of the agreement to reinstate any employee who took part in acts of violence against the company's property. The public service commission may be appealed to by any employee whose reinstatement is refused.

RICHMOND LINE IS TIED UP

Streetcar Men There Strike For Higher Wages.

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 8.—Richmond's streetcar system is tied up completely as a result of a strike of motormen and conductors, following the organization of a union.

The motormen and conductors for a long time have been dissatisfied with the pay received, it is said, but the company refused to pay higher wages on the ground that the business of the Richmond lines did not justify an advance. The employees remained at work, hoping, it is said, that a readjustment would be made at some time in the near future.

The Indianapolis trouble precipitated the movement of the men here to quit work unless the demand for an increase was met. The streetcar men say their demands for an increase are necessary to enable them to make sufficient wages to live and care for their families as they should.

Strikers say that the arbitration agreement entered into by the Indianapolis carmen and the Indianapolis Street Railway company will not effect the local situation.

Muncie Not Much Interested.

Muncie, Ind., Nov. 8.—Men representing the Indianapolis streetcar strikers are in Muncie to attempt to organize the interurban and streetcar men in and out of Muncie with the view of bringing about a strike here. Apparently the strike idea is gaining little headway, however.

Two Boys and a Gun.

Wabash, Ind., Nov. 8.—Albert Siegel, aged sixteen, may lose one or both legs as the result of having been accidentally shot by a boy companion while hunting. Howard Gibson was carrying a shotgun and was attempting to crawl through a fence when the weapon was discharged. The entire load of shot took effect in Siegel's legs.

Boy Took It to Heart.

UNCONFIRMED RUMOR OF CHIHUAHUA'S FALL

Conflicting Reports of Battle Reach El Paso.

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 8.—Chihuahua city has been repeatedly attacked by the rebel forces of Pancho Villa and each time the federal garrison has repulsed the attacking party. This information was conveyed in official dispatches to Mexican Consul Inspector Diebold. Another attack upon Chihuahua is expected and the garrison is confident of being able again to drive the rebels off.

Unconfirmed rumors are in circulation here that Chihuahua had been taken by Villa and that the federal garrison is in flight to the border. Mr. Diebold says that this rumor is false and that the federal not only held their own, but can hold it indefinitely. Reports to the Constitutionalist in El Paso, however, say Chihuahua surrendered to the rebels. These are unconfirmed.

According to other reports received here the capital was attacked from the west and south. Rebel detachments attempted to storm Europe Hill, a fortified position on the outer edge of the city. This hill is crowned by a battery and the attackers were driven off without much difficulty. Villa's soldiers, it is reported, have obtained possession of the Chihuahua smelter, and federal gunners are attempting to dislodge them. Shrapnel is being hurled into the smelter.

Not more than 3,000 rebels took part in the attacks. The rebel leaders are bringing up all forces and intend to make a determined effort to end the fighting today.

They Convinced Him.

There was a Russian writer who disapproved of so many things in connection with the management of his native country that he got himself into serious trouble with the authorities. He persisted in pointing out their defects, and at last they got so exasperated that they decided to hang him, and he was duly sentenced to death by one of the governors he had criticized.

Three times they tried to hang him, and three times the rope broke. The worried hangman postponed the execution while he went to talk things over with the governor.

"What did he say when the rope broke the third time?" asked the governor.

"He said that it was just what might be expected in Russia," replied the hangman—"that we couldn't even hang a man properly."

The enraged governor turned in a fury to the hangman. "Convince him that he is wrong!" he shouted.

So the hangman went back to the condemned man and convinced him.

PROFESSOR WALLACE

Noted British Scientist
Dead at Home in London.

NOTED SCIENTIST IS DEAD AT AGE OF 91

Alfred Russell Wallace Peer of Darwin.

London, Nov. 8.—Alfred Russell Wallace, eminent British scientist, is dead here, aged ninety-one years.

Professor Wallace, the "grand old man of science," shares with Darwin the honors of having set forth the scientific principles of evolution. He was the author of more than 200 books, treatises and monographs. His bent toward scientific research dated back to a collection of beetles which he began as a schoolboy and to complete which he made an expedition to the Amazon in 1848. Professor Wallace visited the United States in 1887. On the occasion of his ninetieth birthday, he gave out a long statement in which he said: "I have come to the general conclusion that there has been no advance either in intellect or morals since the days of the earliest Egyptians. Everything is as bad as it possibly can be. There exist in our midst horrors and dreadful diseases never known before. Our whole social environment is rotten, full of vice and everything that is bad."

A BLACK HAND VENDETTA

Leads to Series of Throat Cuttings in New Jersey.

Harrison, N. J., Nov. 8.—The police of this town are doing their utmost to find the perpetrators of what they consider the most sinister series of outrages in the police annals of northern New Jersey. Within a week three men have been ambushed on the street and their throats cut.

In each instance the same method has been employed. Two men accost the victim and a third, stepping from behind, draws a razor across his throat. The man who uses the weapon is careful not to cut deep enough to sever the jugular vein. Two of the three victims are in a critical condition, while the third may recover.

The surgeons say that if the men get well they will be disfigured for life and that the necessity of drawing down the flesh to cover the razor wound will make their faces askew. The victims are Italians, and while none of them will admit having enemies or receiving threatening letters, the authorities think the crimes constitute a "Black Hand" vendetta. The result has been a thorough terrorizing of the Italian section of Harrison.

COMMITTEE HAS HEATED SESSION

Banking Legislature Bothers Senators.

REAL FIGHT IS YET TO COME

Though President Apparently Has Regained Some of the Ground Lost in Action of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, Public Control of Reserve Association May Prove Stumbling Block.

Washington, Nov. 8.—Some of the ground lost in the struggle before the senate committee on banking and currency over the Glass-Owen bill has been regained by the president. The committee, by a vote of 9 to 3, agreed to allow the secretary of the treasury to be ex-officio member of the federal reserve board. The three senators who voted in committee against this proposal were all Republicans—Weeks, Bristow and McLean.

This action indicated a change of sentiment from a week ago, when it seemed almost certain that the secretary of the treasury would be eliminated from the board. Another advantage for the president's policy was when the committee, by a vote of 7 to 5, agreed to reconsider and reopen the question as to the number of regional banks which had been fixed heretofore at four, with authority to the federal reserve board to increase this number to twelve whenever they deemed it necessary.

It is evident that Senator O'Gorman of New York and Senator Reed of Missouri are gradually relaxing their attitude of opposition to the president's plan. Senator Crawford's plan to make the federal reserve association a bank with authority to discount paper primarily, to make loans and to do a general banking business, was rejected. The proposal received only two votes, those of Senator Bristow and its author.

From time to time the feeling in the committee has been intense. Chairman Owen at a recent meeting lost his temper and served notice on his colleagues in the committee that he was prepared to abandon the hope of making a unanimous report and proposed to have the bill go back to the senate on two reports, a majority report to represent opposition to the administration view, to be concurred in by the Republicans, and the three Democrats who had been acting with them, and a minority report signed by Mr. Owen and his three Democratic colleagues—Pomerene, Hollis and Shafroth—who have been voting to sustain the administration policy.

Senator Crawford, a Republican, appeared overcome by the chairman's pronouncement and became conciliatory, but Senator Reed of Missouri asserted his independence and, taking his hat, announced that he would no longer sit at the committee meetings. Before he had fairly cleared the committee room he was persuaded by colleagues to return. The real contest in the committee is expected to come on the proposition for the public ownership and public control of the reserve association. The administration senators apparently are determined to retain the features of the house bill, giving the member banks a controlling voice in the directorate of the regional reserve association in the ratio of six to three.

The call for a Democratic senatorial conference early next week has been liberally signed.

IS NOT ALL ON ONE SIDE

Hints That Graft Disclosures May Affect All Parties.

New York, Nov. 8.—Since he began his investigation of crooked campaign contributions messages threatening bodily harm have been received by District Attorney Whitman. He admitted that during the last week he has been getting these communications and that personal appeals have been made to him to stop right where he is.

The most startling thing about the appeals is that they have been accompanied with the assertion that if Mr. Whitman persists in his present course he will find that some of his best personal and political friends are involved in the system that exacts from state canal and highway contractors contributions proportioned to the amount of the contracts which they secure.

It has been suggested to Mr. Whitman that while so far the deals only include the Democratic organization, it is more than likely that there will be uncovered a gigantic scheme of graft in which other parties may be involved. The threats and appeals have come from both sides of the political fence.

The Income Tax.

While there is some diversity of opinion as to the wisdom of an income tax in time of peace and still more diversity of opinion as to the justice of a graduated income tax levied without regard to whether the income arises from the enterprise of the taxpayer or not, there is one thing about which all seem agreed: The law itself can not be interpreted without a maze of contradictions, and the amount of bookkeeping it will require under any interpretation will be a burden on business. The instructions sent out to the collectors of internal revenue make confusion worse confounded. A study of them would drive the traditional American Solomon, a Philadelphia lawyer, into Bedlam.

One of the provisions is that the income shall be collected at the source, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. What constitutes the source is one of the first problems. If the banks, which collect coupons on bonds, are compelled to make collection of the tax they will be confronted with the embarrassment of withholding money legally due many coupon holders, whose income is exempt from the tax.

How is a banker to know whether $50 he may collect for a customer is a part of an income of $3000 or $4000 in excess of exemptions? This phase of the situation is giving grave concern to bankers throughout the country, who are between the devil and the deep sea, being liable to suit for collecting an income tax from an individual who is exempt, on the one hand, and subject to prosecution by the government if they refuse to collect, on the other hand. The fact that the law is retroactive, compelling bookkeeping on matters that required no such attention in the course of transaction, adds to the difficulties for the first year. Some of the features will probably be cleared up by regulations issued by the Treasury Department, which will then become the law instead of the statute enacted by Congress.

The corporation tax enacted during the last administration is collected in a simple manner. Each corporation makes a sworn detailed statement to the collector of internal revenue, giving much information valuable to an expert in determining the accuracy of the statement of net earnings. This statement must be sworn to by responsible officers of the corporation and must be returned, under heavy penalty, within a specified time. A false statement is punishable as perjury. The tax has yielded much revenue and the collection has been easy. Under the old personal income tax a similar method was used. It is questionable whether the theorists who sought to devise a method of preventing all evasions of the new income tax will get any more revenue than could have been secured under the old method. About all they will have accomplished by their complex methods will be the addition of great expense of bookkeeping, much of it falling on institutions that have no financial interest in the matter.

It is hard to tell what this country is coming to, when several stockholders of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at a recent meeting ventured to express an opinion about the company's business.

The Mexicans would perhaps be willing to have the United States supervise an election if every one could vote as often as he wanted to.

Congress does not care how many bills the President returns unsigned provided he does not veto the desired appointments.

The currency legislation will never be satisfactory as long as you have to put up security before getting a loan.

There is a growing feeling that President Huerta is playing a pretty large game for a seven spot high.

Editoriales

It is not difficult to tell the married men from the bachelors this season of the year because they are generally carrying home a screen from the sittin' room grate or a joint of stove pipe for the base burner.

"Wanted," says an advertisement in a Nebraska newspaper, "a horse to gather old clothes about town for for its feed." This may be some people's idea of good horse food.

The doctors at Chicago are operating on patients to remove moral defects. They had better have a care else they will inadvertently saw off a few virtues.

Some to Fuss About.

"Edible Oils in the Mediterranean District" is the topic of a monograph just issued by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce at Washington.

Jean Mince of Sheridan has been appointed United States meat inspector. Aw, go on, you do it.

A bill has been introduced for a $500,000 statue of Napoleon Bonaparte, but no mention is made of Jack Jodinson, the other world conquerer who is now a Frenchman also.

We shouldn't wonder but that Jessie Wilson and the gentlemen who is her intended would rather have the cash than the present costing some odd thousands which Congress is going to give them.

Secretary Garrison has stopped the practice of lending war department property, but even his wife, we suppose, runs out of lard or butter and has to call on the next door neighbor.

We nor should any other person have reason to suspect our own Jabe Smith of writing poetry. But even as we hope to live tomorrow, A. R. Holden, the county auditor, has dug a contribution from a farm journal that is signed by Jabe Smith. It must have been our Jabe because there never was another. Jabe denies it, of course. Why shouldn't he? But to ease our conscience, we are going to put it in the Colyum and have an abiding faith in the humor of our half dozen adherents. The poem is entitled "Cider Time" and it is given herewith. Drink in the lines, drink 'em in.

Cider barrels nigh the woodshed
A-frothin' at the bung;
Boys with straws absorb' liquid—
I wish that I was young,
Layin' flat atop a barrel
Suckin' juice today,
And you, old chum, was pumpin' with me—

Cool and sweet as clover honey—
Luscious, limpid juice—
Pints or quarts as free as water—
Can't you feel it ooze.
And kind o'trickle down your gullet
Same as long ago?
Ain't it fun to think about it
Jest as if 'twas so?

—Jabe Smith.

WATSON MADE AN IMPRESSIVE TALK

Spoke at Funeral of His Long-Time Friend, James H. Jones, in Newcastle.

PAID HIM GLOWING TRIBUTE

James E. Watson, of Rushville, was here Thursday to attend the funeral of his close friend, James H. Jones, which took place from the Jones home in South 14th street at two o'clock, says the Newcastle Star. Mr. Watson very eloquently spoke for fifteen minutes on the life of his long-time friend and those who heard the former congressman from this district say the effort was most impressive and beautiful.

Mr. Watson had no better friend than James H. Jones, who for many years looked after the Watson forces and fences in Henry county and did a good job of it. Mr. Watson rewarded him by having him appointed postmaster of this city for two terms and the two men were the very closest friends.

The funeral discourse was delivered by Rev. W. R. Motley, pastor of the Christian church and the interment was made in the cemetery at Hillsboro. The funeral was private but attended by many of the closest friends of the deceased. The floral offering were numerous and very beautiful. Many of them came from friends in other cities as well as from home friends.

UNCLE SAM AIDS WOMAN ON FARM

Many Free Publications For Rural Housewives.

WIDE RANGE OF SUBJECTS.

Milk, Bees and Chickens, Cooking, Care of Flowers and a Host of Other Things Among Topics Included in Numerous Bulletins Now Issued by Government—Supply Limited.

Following its policy to aid farmers' housewives, the department of agriculture in Washington has just issued a list of free publications which apply particularly to women's work. This list is furnished free on application to the editor and chief of the division of publications, United States department of agriculture, Washington, as are the bulletins which it describes.

The bulletins are divided into over 100 special classes, there being sometimes as many as a dozen pamphlets for a subject.

There is one class of bulletins dealing with dairying, while others specially concern butter, cheese, cream and milk. Among the bulletins dealing with milk are the following:

"The Care of Milk and Its Use in the Home," "Ropy Milk and Cream," "Buttermilk," "Clean Milk," "Milk Supply of Cities," "The 'Covered Milk Pail,'" "Cost of Market Milk" and "Lacto, a New and Healthful Frozen Dairy Product."

Bulletins on the subject "Drugs" are entitled:

"Harmfulness of Headache Mixtures" and "Habit Forming Agents—Their Indiscriminate Sale and Use a Menace to the Public Welfare."

Bulletins Cover Wide Range.

There is a set of bulletins dealing with bees; a set dealing with birds, and another set dealing with such household insects as the ant and the flea. Guinea pigs, rabbits and rats also have each a bulletin devoted to them, and particular attention is given to poultry under the following heads:

"Poultry Accounting," "Poultry Diseases and Pests," "Ducks and Geese," "Eggs," "Poultry Feeding," "Guinea Fowl," "Incubation," "Poultry Marketing," "Pheasants," "Squabs," "Turkeys."

Farm conveniences in general have one set of bulletins to describe them, and farmers' institutes another.

Hints on how to prepare foods cover a wide range of subjects, including apples, banana flour, bread, cereal breakfast foods, clams, coffee substitutes and corn. There are twelve bulletins devoted to canning and preserving, while the fireless cooker is the subject of a separate bulletin.

Fruits and flowers each receive their merited share of attention. Annual flowering plants, directions for making window gardens, china asters, garden sweet peas, peonies and rose slugs are subjects treated in the floriculture set, while the blueberry, grape, melons, the mulberry, the raspberry, the rose and the strawberry make up the fruit culture set of publication. Vegetable culture includes bulletins on asparagus, celery, cucumber, mushrooms, okra, rhubarb and tomato.

Facts About Agricultural Clubs.

The housewife who wishes to know about helpful organizations for boys and girls, such as the corn, poultry and canning clubs, may learn about them by sending for the list of pamphlets included under the heading "Agricultural Clubs."

Trees, school gardens, roads, paint and whitewashes, industrial alcohol and water are samples of the wide range of subjects of these publications which the department will send free to the farm woman on application.

Because of the limited supply applicants are urgently requested to ask only for those bulletins in which they are particularly interested. The department cannot undertake to supply complete sets, nor may the applicant ask for more than one copy of any publication for herself.

In applying for these publications, the department advises, first send for the list, and then indicate from this the name of the series and serial number of the bulletins or circulars that are desired.

NO OLEO FOR U. S. SAILORS.

Navy Department Decides Against Use of Substitute For Butter.

The jolly Jack tars of the United States will not be required to eat oleomargarine instead of butter. This decision has just been reached by the navy department. The naval ration law stipulates that the ration shall include two ounces of butter, and it has been decided that the statute places a limit on the authority of the purchasing officers and that they cannot acquire a substitute for butter.

Tests of oleomargarine and butter convinced the paymaster general and other officers of the navy that oleo would be suitable for the naval service, and they reported that it would answer the purpose required of it. An examination of the law was afterward made, however, and the decision reached that a substitute for butter cannot be doled out to men in the naval establishment.

RUSHVILLE, INDIANA

Winners

The Get of Winners

Production

This describes the class of cattle we will sell in their coming sale. Messrs Boyd and Dixon have had the most prominent show herds on the big Fair circuit for the past half dozen years, and they have always won their share of the money. They have shown in competition with the largest herds in the country. In the sale will be animals that have won not only blue ribbons this fall, but some that have walked out with championships; and the best part of it all, they were bred at home. All of the animals to be sold were not on the show circuit, yet I saw two at Mr. Boyd's farm who were superior individuals to the ones he had out. This is also true of Mr. Dixon's cattle, yet they did not freshen at the right time.

You can secure at this sale animals that combine the blood of winners with production. The Catalog is ready. Write to

CHAPTER VIII. The Thief.

MARY was in joyous spirits after her victorious matching of brains against a lawyer of high standing in his profession when she had entered the telephone booth, which had been installed in an extra closet of her bedroom for the sake of greater privacy on occasion. During her absence from the drawing room Garson again came into the apartment seeking her. On being told by Aggie as to Mary's whereabouts he sat down to await her return, listening without much interest to the chatter of the adventuress. The maid appeared and said:

"There's a girl wants to see Miss Turner."
"She says it's important. I guess the poor thing's in hard luck from the look of her," the kindly Fannie added.
"Oh, then, she'll be welcome, of course," Aggie declared, and Garson nodded in acquiescence. "Tell her to come in and wait, Fannie. Miss Turner will be here right away." She turned to Garson as the maid left the room. "Mary sure is an easy boob," she remarked cheerfully. "Bless her soft heart!"

A minute later a girl perhaps twenty years of age stepped just within the doorway and stood there with eyes downcast after one swift, furtive glance about her. Her whole appearance was that of dejection. Her soiled black gown, the cringing posture, the pallor of her face, proclaimed the abject misery of her state.

"Are you Miss Turner?" she asked in a voice broken by nervous dismay.
"Really, I am very sorry," Aggie replied primly, "but I am only her cousin, Miss Agnes Lynch. But Miss Turner is likely to be back any minute now."

"Can I wait?" came the timid question.
"Certainly," Aggie answered hospitably. "Please sit down."

As the girl obediently sank down on the nearest chair Garson addressed her sharply, so that the visitor started uneasily at the unexpected sound.

"You don't know Miss Turner?"
"No," came the faint reply.
"Then, what do you want to see her about?"

"She once helped a girl friend of mine, and I thought—I thought—" "You thought she might help you," Garson interrupted.
"You have been in stir—prison, I mean," Aggie hastily corrected the lapse into underworld slang.
Came a distressed muttering of assent from the girl.

The conversation was put to an end by the entrance of Mary, who stopped short on seeing the limp figure huddled in the chair.

"A visitor, Agnes?" she inquired.
At the sound of her voice the girl looked up and spoke with some degree of energy.

"You're Miss Turner?" she questioned.

"Yes," Mary said. Her words rang kindly and she smiled encouragement. A gasp burst from the white lips of the girl, and she covered as one stricken physically.

"Mary Turner! Oh, my God! I—She hid her face within her arms and sat bent until her head rested on her knees in an abasement of misery.

Vaguely startled by the hysterical outburst from the girl, Mary's immediate thought was that there was a pitiful instance of one suffering from starvation.

"Joe," she directed rapidly, "have Fannie bring a glass of milk with an egg and a little brandy in it, right away."

The girl in the chair was shaking soundlessly under the stress of her emotions. A few disjointed phrases fell from her quivering lips.

"I didn't know—oh, I couldn't!" "Don't try to talk just now," Mary warned, reassuringly. "Wait until you've had something to eat."

Aggie, who had observed developments closely, now lifted her voice in tardy lamentations over her own stupidity.

"Why, the poor gawk's hungry!" she exclaimed. "And I never got the dope on her. Ain't I the simp!"

The girl regained a degree of self control and showed something of forlorn dignity.

"Yes," she said dully, "I'm starving." Mary regarded the afflicted creature with that sympathy born only of experience.

"Yes," she said softly. "I understand." Then she spoke to Aggie. "Take her to my room and let her rest there for awhile. Have her drink the egg and milk slowly and then lie down for a few minutes anyhow."

Half an hour afterward Aggie reported with her charge, who, though still shambling of gait and stooping, showed by some faint color in her face and an increased steadiness of bearing that the food had already strengthened her much.

"She would come," Aggie explained. "I thought she ought to rest for awhile longer anyhow."

"I'm all right, I tell you," came the querulous protest.

"Are you quite sure?" Mary said to the girl. "Then tell us all about it—this trouble of yours, you know. What is your name?"

"Helen Morris."

"I don't have to ask if you have been in prison. Your face shows it."

"I—I came out—three months ago."

"And you'd made up your mind to go straight?"

"Yes." The word was a whisper.

"You were going to do what the chaplain had told you," Mary went on.

"You were going to start all over again, weren't you?"

The bent head of the girl bent lower in assent.

"It doesn't work very well, does it?" "No, I'm whipped."

Mary's manner changed. She spoke cheerfully for the first time.

"Well, then, how would you like to work with us?"

"You—you mean that?"

"Our kind of work pays well when you know how. Look at us. Suppose I should stake you for the present and put you in with a good crowd. All you would have to do would be to answer advertisements for servant girls. I will see that you have the best of references. Then, when you get in with the right people you will open the front door some night and let in the gang. Of course you will make a getaway when they do and get your bit as well."

There flashed still another of the swift, sly glances, and the lips of the girl parted as if she would speak. But she did not; only her head sagged even lower on her breast and the shrunken form grew yet more shrunken.

"It doesn't suit you? Good! I was in hopes it wouldn't. So, here's another plan. Suppose you could go west—some place where you would have a fair chance, with money enough so you could live like a human being till you got a start?"

There came a tensing of the relaxed form, and the head lifted a little, so that the girl could look at her questioner.

"I will give you that chance," Mary said simply, "if you really want it."

The wretched girl sat suddenly erect, and her words came eagerly.

"Oh, I do!" And now her hungry gaze remained fast on the face of the woman who offered her salvation.

"Then I have just one thing to say to you first. If you are going to live straight start straight, and then go through with it. Do you know what that means?"

"You mean keep straight all the time?" The girl spoke with a force drawn from the other's strength.

"I mean more than that. I mean forget that you were ever in prison. I don't know what you have done—I don't think I care. But whatever it was, you have paid for it—a pretty big price too."

"I have, I have!" The thin voice broke, waiving.

"Well, then," Mary went on, "just begin all over again, and be sure you stand up for your rights. Don't let them make you pay a second time. Go where no one knows you, and don't tell the first people who are kind to you that you have been crooked. If they think you are straight, why, be it. Then nobody will have any right to complain. Will you promise me this?"

"Yes, I promise," came the answer, very gravely, quickened with hope.

"Good!" Mary exclaimed, with a smile of approval. "Wait a minute," she added and left the room.

"Huh! Pretty soft for some people," Aggie remarked to Garson, with a sniff.

Mary returned soon. In her hand she carried a roll of bills. She went to the girl and held out the money.

"Take this. It will pay your fare west and keep you quite awhile if you are careful."

But, without warning, a revulsion seized on the girl. She shrank again and turned her head away as her body trembled.

"I can't take it!" she exclaimed. "I can't! I can't!"

"Didn't you come here for help?" "Yes," was the faltering reply, "but—but—I didn't know—it was you!"

"Then you have met me before?" Mary said quietly.

"No, no!" The girl's voice rose shrill. Aggie spoke her mind with frankness. "She's lying."

Garson agreed. His yes was spoken in a tone of complete certainty. That Mary, too, was of their opinion was shown in her next words.

"So you have met me before? Where?"

The girl unwittingly made confession in her halting words.

"I can't tell you." There was despair in her voice.

"You must." The girl only crouched lower.

"I can't!" she cried again, panting as if in exhaustion.

"Why can't you?" "Because—because—" The girl could not go on.

"What were you sent up for?" "For stealing." "Stealing what?" "Goods." "Where from?" "The Emporium." In a flash of intuition the whole truth was revealed to the woman who stood looking down at the cowering creature before her.

"The Emporium!" she repeated. There was a tragedy in the single word. "Then you are the one who—" The accusation was cut short by the girl's shriek.

"You cried and lied, and they let you off with a year."

"I am not! I am not, I tell you!"

For a moment Mary lost her poise. Her voice rose in a flare of rage.

"You are! You are!"

The craven spirit of the girl could struggle no more. She could only sit in a huddled, shaking heap of dread.

Mary soon mastered her to such an extent that when she spoke again, as if in self communion, her words came quietly, yet with overtones of a supreme woe.

"She did it!" Then after a little she addressed the girl with a certain wondering before this mystery of horror.

"Why did you throw the blame on me?"

The girl made several efforts before her quivering became intelligible, and then her speech was gasping, broken with fear.

"I found out they were watching me, and I was afraid they would catch me. So I took them and ran into the cloak room and put them in a locker that wasn't close to mine and some in the pocket of a coat that was hanging there. God knows I didn't know whose it was. I just put them there—I was frightened!"

"But they caught you later. Why didn't you tell them?"

"I was afraid," came the answer from the shuddering girl. "I told them it was the first time I had taken anything, and they let me off with a year."

"You cried and lied, and they let you off with a year. I wouldn't cry. I told the truth—and—" Mary's voice broke in a tearless sob. The color had gone out of her face, and she stood rigid, looking down at the girl whose crime had ruined her life with an expression of infinite loathing in her eyes.

Aggie took advantage of the pause. Her voice was acid. "Some people are sneaks—just sneaks!"

Somehow the speech was welcome to the girl, gave her a touch of courage sufficient for cowardly protestations. It was more like the abuse that was familiar to her. A gush of tears came.

"I'll never forgive myself, never!" she moaned.

"Oh, yes, you will," Mary said malevolently. "People forgive themselves pretty easily. Stop crying. Nobody is going to hurt you." She thrust the money again toward the girl and crowded it into the half reluctant, half greedy hand. "Take it, and get out."

The contempt in her voice rang still sharper. "Go, before I change my mind!"

The girl needed no second bidding. With the money still clutched in her hand she went forth swiftly, stumbling a little in her haste, fearful lest at the last moment the woman she had so wronged should change in mood and take back the money.

Freed from the miasma of that presence, Mary remained motionless for a long minute, then sighed from her tortured heart.

"A girl I didn't know," she said bewilderedly, "perhaps had never spoken to—who smashed my life like that! Oh, if it wasn't so awful it would be funny! It would be funny!"

LIND'S LATEST FINAL RESORT

Effort to Induce Huerta to Clear Out.

SIMPLY WASTING HIS TIME

The Latest Word From Mexican Capital Has It That Dictator Is Not Likely to Be Influenced by Arguments of Wilson's Envoy in View of His Repeated Declarations Along That Very Line.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 8.—Rear Admiral Fletcher with the battleship Rhode Island has moved inside the harbor, anchoring in the very center. This action on the part of the admiral is causing much comment.

Mexico City, Nov. 8.—John Lind, President Wilson's special envoy to Mexico, has had a conference with General Huerta. It is impossible to obtain any information regarding the subjects discussed at the conference, as the meeting of Mr. Wilson's envoy and the provisional president was officially denied.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The president's special envoy in Mexico, John Lind, has gone back to Mexico City as a last resort in the efforts that are being made to induce Huerta to eliminate himself from the situation. This is the interpretation put by Washington generally on the latest move in the Mexican muddle.

When the news of Mr. Lind's sudden departure from Vera Cruz for the Mexican capital reached Washington hope was expressed by many that it presaged a yielding on the part of Huerta to the American representations for his self-effacement. This hope, however, was short-lived, for unofficial dispatches from Mexico City strengthened the impression that Huerta is determined to stand firmly against the demands of the United States. The conclusion, therefore, was forced on Washington observers that the administration is playing its last card in ordering John Lind back to Mexico City.

That Mr. Lind goes to the capital under instructions from Washington and not on his own initiative, has been learned here. As to the immediate purpose of his visit and the outlook for developments from it, Washington officials are silent.

It is apparent, though, that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan are hopeful that Mr. Lind, appearing as the direct spokesman of the president of the United States, will be able to create more of an impression upon Huerta than has Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires in Mexico City.

Mr. Lind has gone back to Mexico City to try again what moral suasion can do. He will attempt to persuade Huerta that it will be for the good of all concerned, including himself and Mexico and the United States government, for him to keep his word and yield to the representation of this government.

That the efforts of Lind are likely to fail is indicated with positiveness by unofficial news from Mexico. President Huerta is represented as having determined upon a formal reply to the demand of the United States. Furthermore, it is said that President Huerta and his cabinet has decided to inform the United States that they (the United States) had no right, legal or otherwise, to demand Huerta's elimination. The Mexican reply also, according to the information which reached Washington through outside channels, will point out that Provisional President Huerta himself has no legal right to accede to the demands made by Washington officials.

The Mexican president apparently is prepared to point out that he is bound to follow the course prescribed by the Mexican laws and constitution and under existing conditions, and that for him to accede to the United States demands would be to run counter to his duties as provisional president.

NAVAJOS THREATEN TO TAKE WAR PATH

Ship Rock Agency in Danger of Annihilation.

Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 8.—Steadfastly refusing to acknowledge the authority of Agent Shelton of the Ship Rock agency, 500 frenzied Navajo Indians are daily executing the "blood dance" and have threatened to massacre the entire agency force on Monday, if the recent outrages against settlers are not condoned and a federal indictment quashed.

Ten days ago eleven Indian outlaws and white renegades began a series of raids against settlers' homes, burning and pillaging, driving off stock and abusing white women and children. They believe that the presence of the whites is responsible for a season of drought and poor crops.

No organized revolt was manifested by the tribe until the recent beginning of their annual harvest carnival. Then the young bucks refused to listen to their chiefs and medicine men and the raiding and lawless acts have since become general. In response to appeals for assistance by Agent Shelton, a posse of deputy sheriffs is now en route to the agency.

The eleven renegades are under indictment for riot. Unless the indictment is quashed and the offenders pardoned, the Indians threaten to annihilate the entire agency force.

Preacher's Gun Killed Friend. Columbia City, Ind., Nov. 8.—Thomas Lung, who was accidentally shot in the abdomen while out hunting, is dead. The Rev. G. W. Marlow, pastor of the Laud church, was removing shells from his gun when it was accidentally discharged. Lung was standing twenty feet away and the entire charge struck him. Lung leaves a widow.

Costly Blaze at Martinsville. Martinsville, Ind., Nov. 8.—Fire destroyed the mill and elevator of the Branch Grain and Feed company and the Martinsville bottling works. It was only by hard work that the Martinsville Milling company building, near by, was saved. The entire loss is estimated at $25,000.

Aged Recluse Starved. Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 8.—Mrs. Jane Julien, aged seventy-nine, is dead of starvation. She refused to live with her children, preferring the life of a recluse. When found she had been without food four days and died in a few hours.

SUCCESSFUL IN NEW YORK

Will Carson, Spiceland Boy, at Head of Publishing House.

Will Carson, a Spiceland boy and the son of Mrs. J. C. Autrim, is another boy of that place who has made good in the business world. Some twelve years ago he went to Chicago, where he accepted a position in the publishing house of D. C. Heath & Co., remaining in that city until two years ago, when he went to New York. The first of the year Mr. Carson organized a company to purchase the control of the School Journal and he was chosen business manager of the publishing company. Since he took the management of the concern many improvements have been made and the publication is meeting with marked success. Mr. Carson expects to pay a visit to his old home and friends at Spiceland next summer.

Choosing the Easier Way.
"I thought you were going to invest your money in stocks?"
"I did think of it."
"Have you changed your mind?"
"Yes. I went into a broker's place the other day for the purpose of watching the market a little while. Have you ever been in a broker's office?"
"Yes."

"Then you know the layout. There is a big blackboard upon one of the walls. At each side of the room there are tickers. Facing the blackboard are several rows of chairs, which are occupied by men who have bought or sold. They sit there, nervously chewing their cigars and watching the quotations as they are written on the blackboard."

"What has that to do with your decision not to invest?"

"After watching these watchers for awhile and studying their expressions I decided that it would be easier to go on working for the money I'm going to need."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Mirabeau as an Orator.

No one, not even Talleyrand, could approach Mirabeau as a speaker; and, curiously enough, this violent, emotional man was, as orator, perfectly self possessed.

"During the debate on the disturbances at Marseilles the Right interrupted his speech with cries of slanderer, liar, scoundrel, assassin. He stopped for a moment and looked at the excited members who were bespattering him with their vile words: 'I am waiting, gentlemen,' he said, 'for these amenities to die down.' Then he went on with his speech at the point where he had broken off."

His face, pitted with smallpox, was ugly, says the author of "Mirabeau," but his very ugliness, transformed by the play of his countenance, was marvelously turned into a source of power. When he shook his "terrible boar's head" he was terrifying and no man dared to interrupt him.

Constructively "She."

In a well known college for women where the faculty consists chiefly of the gentler sex a meeting of the academic council was in progress. Here and there a lone man sat isolated in the concourse of learned ladies. An amendment had just been proposed.

"Where is the person who offers this amendment?" inquired the president. "Who is she?"

Whereupon Mr. Flower, the popular young professor of a favorite subject, rose and replied deprecatingly, "I am she."—Youth's Companion.

TWO HEROIC WOMEN SAVE A MAN'S LIFE

William Russell Stricken With Apoplexy While Shingling Roof of a Barn.

IS TIED UNTIL AID ARRIVES

Probably the presence of mind of Mrs. William Cole and daughter, Miss Helen residing one-half mile east of Morristown, saved one life Friday when William Russell, 60 years old, a carpenter of Morristown, suffered a stroke of apoplexy while shingling the roof on the large barn situated on the farm of Mr. Cole, says the Shelbyville Democrat.

No men were near when the attack came and as Mrs. Russell realized that he was becoming sick, he yelled to Mrs. Cole to come to his aid. Not showing the usual excitement which follows such a call, Mrs. Cole told her daughter to get a rope while she climbed the ladder to the roof of the barn and held him until the daughter arrived with the rope. The rope was tied around his body and he was kept from falling to the ground, twenty feet below. Louis Nigh, who was passing the barn on his way to Morristown a few minutes after the stroke, was called and with his aid the suffering man was lowered to safety and Dr. R. S. McCray was called to attend him.

WOMEN'S CURIES ALMOST A MIRACLE

Mrs. Grace Jackman of Andersonville Thought to be Dying of Cancer of Stomach.

A NEW DIET GETS RESULTS

It is only a few months ago that the relatives and friends of Mrs. Grace Jackman, in fact several physicians, had given her up and consigned her to an early grave, says the Andersonville Herald. She had been a sufferer for some time with an acute form of stomach trouble and the consensus of opinion was that she had cancer of the stomach and would live but a short time. Mrs. Jackman became weak in mind and body. As a last chance she was induced to change medicine and diet. For weeks she lived on cornbread and fish and gained in health all the time. Her friends are compelled to remark the change in her. No longer does she look like one seized by death, but has the appearance of a sixteen year old girl with clear complexion and ruddy cheeks. Her mind and body are perfectly healthy. She has ceased taking any kind of medicine and can eat three hearty meals each day. The cure is but little short of a miracle.

FATALLY SHOT.

Samuel Jinks, of near Laurel, was fatally shot yesterday while out on a hunting trip. Mr. Jinks was climbing over a fence when in some manner the gun was discharged and he died almost immediately. He was sixty-two years old and was well known in the Laurel neighborhood. He is survived by a widow, two daughters and three sons. Two of the sons, LeRue Jinks and Charles Jinks reside in Connersville.
